

Insurance Information and Verification of Benefits

We will be happy to bill your insurance for your covered services at Vancouver Counseling Group. You are, of course, still responsible for any balance your insurance does not pay. In order to bill for services we need your help. We must have accurate and complete information from you regarding your primary and any secondary health insurance companies' coverage. If you have more than one insurance coverage, we must have information on all of them in order to bill for your services. Insurance companies share information with each other to "coordinate benefits" and will not process claims that do not include information about other companies that may also have some primary or secondary responsibility for your bill. Claims are routinely rejected or delayed by insurance companies if they contain inaccurate or incomplete information.

Because mental health benefits are highly variable, we need you to call your insurance company(s) to obtain current and specific information about exactly what your mental health benefits are. This will also help ensure that there are no surprises for you about what your out-of-pocket costs are likely to be. We will contact your insurance company(s) to verify coverage too, but complete information is not always available to us from insurance companies until after we have submitted a claim.

Preparing and submitting insurance billings is a complex and time consuming process. Once a claim is submitted, it can take from 30 to 90 days, sometimes longer, for the insurance company to respond. It is very important that each claim has complete and accurate information so that it is not rejected or delayed.

Important - Medicaid Clients:

If you have State of Washington Medicaid Insurance and also have another primary or secondary insurance coverage, you cannot decide to only tell us about and use the Medicaid insurance. If you do this, your Medicare claim will be rejected and we will no longer be able to serve you.

The form below will prompt you to request the necessary information when you contact your insurance company. Once we have this information, we will be able to prepare and submit claims to your insurance companies.
